

Large semigames

Miklós Pintér

Corvinus Center for Operations Research, Corvinus University of Budapest

`pmiklos@protonmail.com`

Large games are such games where both the player set and the players' strategy sets can be infinite. We consider various mixed extensions of large games, the properties of the mixed extensions and the relations among them. We introduce the notion of semigames where the payoffs are not necessarily defined.

We also generalize the notion of Nash equilibrium for semigames and show that every semigame has a generalized Nash equilibrium.